

THAT the first large camp meeting held in Pickaway-co was conducted along Little Walnut creek near the home of Jacob Longbaugh in July, 1826. According to newspapers of the time, a large crowd attended the meeting, but it was not a success because so many "ignorant persons" were in attendance.

It was decided that a committee would draw up a list of rules and regulations so that persons attending the second meeting "would not be embarrassed by their apparent lack of camp meeting knowledge." The camp meeting managers, Russell Bigelow, Jacob Delay, Charles Rawlins, James Tallman and Whiting Allen framed a list of rules which were very strict and quite characteristic of the Puritanical ideas of the time.

The second camp meeting opened on Friday, July 20, 1827, closed on the following Tuesday. As a preamble to its list of regulations, the committee had this to say: "It sometimes happens that persons who have been in the habit of attending camp meetings, for want of knowing the usual regulations of such meetings, transgress the established rules to their after mortification. Others appear ignorant. So to inform both types the list of rules is ordained.

Among the regulations was one designating the separation of men and women during services, and the prohibition of smoking and drinking near the grounds. The rules established by the committee follow:

1. All persons who come to the camp meeting with wagons or with design of pitching tents or tenting their wagons, must stop outside the encampment and receive instructions from one of the directors concerning their location.

2. All persons, with teams, who arrive at the meeting in time of preaching, are requested to stop outside the encampment and not attempt to come in until preaching is over.

3. MEN AND WOMEN ARE REQUIRED TO SIT APART DURING THE TIME OF DIVINE WORSHIP.

4. The place of retirement for men and the place of retirement for women will be made known at the meeting and every one must retire to the place pointed out.

5. The blowing of the trumpet at the stand will be the signal for preaching; at that time, all persons, excepting invalids, are required to leave their tents or wagons and take seats near the stand.

6. There must be no gathering into groups, no talking within the tent, nor any loud hallowing calculated to disturb the worshippers.

7. The people are prohibited from standing on the seats during the encampment, excepting persons who put up candles.

8. No persons, (except the preachers), are allowed in the stand without special permission.

9. There must be no smoking of cigars or pipes within 500 feet of the tent during divine services.

10. ALL PERSONS WHO ATTEND THE MEETINGS ARE REQUESTED TO GO PREPARED WITH FOOD FOR THEMSELVES AND HORSES.

A law also prohibited persons from selling "ordent spirits, cider or beer, within one mile of the camp," and no marketing in the vicinity was allowed.

DISTRICT G. O. P. FOR SILBAUGH FOR CONGRESS?

Lancaster Newspaper Reports "Bigwigs" Not for Renick Dunlap

MELL MAY BE IN Recent meeting of GOP Bosses Rumored

Republicans of the 11th Ohio congressional district are staring fondly at the chair now occupied by Mell G. Underwood of New Lexington and wondering just who they can elect—if anyone.

Reports current today are that some of the leaders of the district met recently to pick a favorite representative and now are

TOM RENICK TO RUN?
Tom A. Renick, chairman of the Pickaway-co Republican executive committee, may be a candidate for the nomination for the Ohio senate from the Pickaway-Franklin district. The two positions, to which the district is entitled, are now filled by Paul Gingham, Republican, and August Weber, Democrat. Both are residents of Columbus.

for Col. L. G. Silbaugh, prominent Lancaster attorney and G. O. P. leader. Silbaugh is vacationing in Canada, so the report goes, and cannot be reached for a statement.

Off Renick Dunlap?
Many of the Republican bigwigs, according to the Lancaster Eagle, would not heartily endorse Renick W. Dunlap, Pickaway-twp, former assistant secretary of agriculture in the Coolidge and Hoover cabinets, because Underwood gave him a going over in every one of the district's counties in the 1934 election.

Dunlap, it is believed, is interested and may again be a candidate.

Tom White of Carroll, Fairfield-co, who lost to Dunlap for the nomination a year ago, is again reported ready to try for the job. The Democratic situation is quite uncertain. Congressman Underwood may again be in the race; at least several of his recent

ITALY DEFIES ALL NATIONS; SCORNS PEACE

Army to Be Increased to "Face Any Eventuality," According to Duce

CONCESSION AIRED

Americans, British May Develop Part of Ethiopia

ROME, Aug. 31.—A hint that Italy would not recognize the Anglo-American oil concessions granted by Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia was given in the influential Italian newspaper, Giornale d'Italia, today.

Commenting on the Abyssinian deal the newspaper said "When Mussolini declared he would observe all British interests in Africa he did not mean he was signing a blank check."

BOLZANO, Italy, Aug. 31.—

Backing with greater armed might his warning that international action against his Ethiopian campaign would meet with resistance, Premier Benito Mussolini today announced that 200,000 more troops would be called to the colors within a month, and all the present forces, numbering nearly one million, would be kept in uniform.

In a terse, two-hundred word speech, Mussolini scorned all peace efforts and warned that his army, already the world's largest, would be increased "in order to face any eventuality that may arise."

Mussolini was addressing representative detachments of the 500,000 soldiers who have been conducting a week's maneuvers in northern Italy, and around Naples, in Sicily. All will remain under arms, he said.

Scorns Sanctions

"The world must know once again that while there is so much absurd and provocative talk of sanctions, we will not give up a single soldier, a single sailor, or a single aviator."

"But we will bring to the highest degree of power all the armed forces of the nation."

Mussolini concluded with a stirring appeal for "courage and resolution."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—

Declining to comment until they receive official confirmation from their own ambassadors on the concessions Ethiopia's emperor is reported to have granted American and British interests to develop the mineral resources of a part of his country, state department officials today did make it clear that the reported concessions would not draw the United States closer into the controversy between Italy and Ethiopia.

This view was supported by Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho, for many years chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, and others, but some admitted that the new development, if true, would undoubtedly create some complicated situations.

Three Stunters, Famed in Separate Nations, to Lead Saturday Events

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, Cleveland, Aug. 31.—The lure of a mad round of aviation thrills unequalled in aerial annals today drew 50,000 rabid, wide-eyed followers of the whirling propeller and the screaming motor into the rambling stands of this largest airport in the world.

Their appetites whetted by yesterday's postponement and the promise of the first national air races "doubleheader," in which yesterday's events and those of today will be combined into one mad, three-ring circus, brought them early—prepared to stay late.

Women Take Part

Looming as the bright spot of this double dose of daredevil didoes was the Amelia Earhart trophy race for women, slated for late afternoon. Members of the fair sex, constrained from participation in last year's races, are champing to "get out there and show those men." Extensive happenings are forecast.

The event will be contested over a closed 15-mile course, five laps to the 75-mile race. Practically without exception, the finest "powder puff pilots" of the country will put their steel air rockets through qualifying trials before the starting gun to gain coveted permission to compete in the race proper.

In the racing realm, also, the lid will be lifted on the Greve trophy race, an event run in three heats, for small planes, and often described as the most valuable single race on the four-day card from a laboratory viewpoint.

JOHN KIRWIN ENTERS RACE

Father of Six Sons Files Petition For Board of Education; Reid to Run.

John M. Kirwin, 904 S. Court-st., today filed a petition with Harry E. Well, deputy clerk of the board of elections, seeking a post on the board of education.

Mr. Kirwin is the third man to file for one of the three positions on the board to be filled and three other petitions are in circulation.

Dr. G. D. Phillips, N. Court-st., and Rev. L. C. Sherburne, S. Scioto-st., have filed their petitions while petitions are still in circulation for Charles H. May and C. R. Barnhart, incumbent board members whose terms expire, and William M. Reid, Democratic member of council who has had many years experience in school work. Mr. Reid was beaten for the nomination for a second term in council by T. M. Barnes.

Although the board of education posts are non-partisan, Mr. Kirwin is the first Democrat to file for one of the jobs. Both Dr. Phillips and Rev. Sherburne are Republicans.

Mr. Kirwin is the father of six sons, four of whom have graduated from Circleville high school within the past ten years. He is well and favorably known in this city where he has spent his entire life. For 42 years he has been a cashier for the Norfolk and Western railroad here.

He is a member of Juvenile Judge C. C. Young's county board of visitors. Mr. Kirwin has never sought public office.

FEDERAL HELP IS NECESSARY, PLAN ORDERED

City May Be Asked to Vote $45,000 Bond Issue for Local Share

SEEKS WPA FUNDS

Columbus Firm of Architects is Retained

A $45,000 bond issue covering the city's share of an $82,000 addition to Circleville high school may be submitted to the voters at the November election.

The board of education plans to file an application for federal aid covering 45 per cent of the cost of the addition before Sept. 4. If federal aid is assured on the project the bond issue will be placed before the voters.

Extend High School

Preliminary plans for the addition call for the extension of the high school building to Corwin-st on the south and connect the building to the Corwin-st school on the east side.

Charles H. May, president of the board of education, said he was unable to state how many rooms the proposed addition would contain. He explained the addition would be identical with the architecture of the high school building. The high school building is a two story type building with manual training and domestic science rooms in the basement.

The board retained Richard, McCarty and Bulford, Columbus architects, to make plans for the new addition if government aid is obtained for the project.

Federal Office Places Fifty-Eight

The National Reemployment Service obtained private placements for 58 persons during the month of August, according to a report issued Saturday noon.

Eight women were placed in homes as housekeepers and maids on steady work. The other fifty were men who obtained employment as carpenters, painters, harvest hands, laborers, gardeners and one man obtained a permanent position as cook. Several girls obtained temporary work as typists. One young man obtained a steady position on a poultry farm.

Fourteen placements were made on the WPA bridge in Salt Creek-twp near Stringtown. This project was completed Aug. 29.

Labor Day this year as in recent years offers much food for thought. Too many of us are disposed to dismiss any thought on labor problems to so-called experts which is not fair to ourselves nor doing justice to the great issues involved. The least we can do is to ask ourselves "how can we help to solve this problem in our measure? Can we give employment to some one in need of it? Some among us are working more hours than God intended any man to work. In an economic crisis we need give help to some other and labor is better than charity. He would be considered a most wise man who could give us a solution for our present ills but one thing will help—that is, to follow the example of Jesus in our dealings with our neighbors. What the world needs more than aught else is His motive dominating our wills. His ideals put into practice, the churches are more eager than ever to help in their way. Go to church tomorrow, Take a friend.

THE MEANING OF LABOR DAY

Labor Day again leads us to specifically think of the men who toil at the burdensome occupations within human society. Christ was a workman who lived with the men who work.

Edwin Markham has said, "It is the purpose of the Divine Master to draw men so closely together that they will all stand upon a common ground. He knew that brotherhood must have a material basis. Christ had a vision of all this when he said, 'Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest.'"

With malice toward none and charity for all, the churches send greetings on Labor Sunday to all who toil with hand or brain and look forward with them to a better day. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

PLANTS GEMS AS SEEDS

PITTSBURGH.—Little Janet Bailey is not yet three years old, but she has her own ideas of gardening. Her parents missed a quantity of rings, jewels and other valuables. Two days afterward, a housemaid, accompanied by Janet, made a tour of the yard about the Bailey house. In a mud-pile she found a diamond ring "planted" while search of the lawn and the ground near sidewalks revealed others of the missing jewelry pieces. Janet had them all well planted. She is still wondering whether a diamond tree might not have grown up if they hadn't interfered with her "garden."

The First Church of Christ in Wethersfield, Connecticut, recently observed its three hundredth anniversary. This was the first church organized in the Connecticut colony, and was founded by six men dismissed from the Watertown, Mass. church in 1635.

The Newman Congregational church of Rumford, R. I. recently celebrated its two hundred ninety-ninth anniversary. It was founded by Samuel Newman, the compiler of the first English concordance. It is said to be the only church in existence built upon land purchased from the Indians and which has preserved to this day the original quit-claim deed signed by King Philip himself and witnessed by the crude marks of four Indian braves. It is probably the only church that has existed, without moving, under two national governments, two different states and three different towns. Three meetings-houses have sheltered the congregation, one built in 1647, the second in 1718 and the third and last in 1810.

A Chicago report states that the first Hebrew Christian church to be organized on American soil has just been organized at the Penial Community Center in that city. Forty-one persons signed the charter. It is fashioned after the pattern of the Hebrew Christian church in Jerusalem and is designed to call the attention of the Jewish race to the Messiah.

Dignity of Labor

The Duke: (To a man at work in Palazzo Vecchio): "How come you here?"

Workman: "I wait my companions, Sir."

The Duke: "Ah, the frescoes; yes. And the box you are making for pastime, how will it be used?"

Workman: "Flowers will be placed in it, Sir."

The Duke: "It will be filled with dirt. Why take such pains with it, to make each joint and surface perfect?"

Workman: "I love perfect things, Sir."

The Duke: "It is wasted effort. No one will observe its perfection. Its usage does not require such perfection."

Workman: "But my spirit does."

The Duke: "What's that?"

Workman: "Do you suppose that the Carpenter of Nazareth ever made anything less well than he could? That he was ever satisfied with anything less perfect than he could make?"

WHAT IS THE CHRISTIAN INTERPRETATION OF INDUSTRIAL HARMONY TODAY?

Dr. John McDowell has said relative to this subject, "The mystical dream Christ of mediaevalism needs to be supplemented by the practical, fraternal, democratic Christ for our day—the Christ, not of the cloister, but of the farm, the shop, the factory, the mine, the railroad, the office, the school, the home—in a word, the Christ who has an interest in and a message for all human relationships, all human activities, all human needs."

Christ stands for co-operation, and therefore is the solution of the problem of greater efficiency in the work of industry; for justice, and therefore is the solution of the problem of greater equity in the distribution of the earnings of industry; for democracy, and therefore is the solution of the problem of a greater participation in the management of industry; for brotherhood, and therefore is the solution of the problem of greater security in the operation of industry; for love, and therefore is the solution of

fied with anything less perfect than it could be made?"

Paul—A Worker With Hand and Brain

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Acts 20:33-35; Philippians 4:4-13.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Saul of Tarsus had come to be the early church's arch enemy and persecutor when Christ appeared to him on the road to Damascus and called him to become a Christian. Thus he was converted.

Though highly educated in the schools of the day Paul learned the trade of tentmaking at which he supported himself and his associates whenever necessary.

Paul had been pastor three years at Ephesus and on his last journey in that region while his ship waited at Miletus he visited with the leaders of the church at Ephesus and bade them farewell.

About five of Paul's 35 years as a Christian were spent in prison from which he wrote wonderful letters to encourage his friends. His mind could not be imprisoned.

eastern Ethiopia today staggered business and government circles, where the deal was the sole topic of conversation.

Talk Possibilities In the "city" and around Whitehall hurried conferences of financiers and officials were called to discuss the immense international implications of the reported arrangement.

While some indication of official British reaction was eagerly awaited, the reports that most of the money for the Ethiopian enterprise will be found in New York and London surprised conservative financiers, who felt that even such a cast-iron concession as Francis M. Rickett apparently obtained was fraught with considerable risk due to the uncertain political situation.

On the other hand, interest in the "city" soon showed that there were plenty of people there willing to take a gamble, and it was felt that there would be plenty of British money available for developing the concession if it is sought.

Rickett is known in London's financial section as a man prominent behind the scenes in several big international oil deals in the near and middle east.

Regardless of what today's humming activity brings, the thrill of yesterday's Dendix trophy Los Angeles-Cleveland derby, in which Roscoe Turner, holder of the transcontinental record, trailed Ben O. Howard, Chicago pilot-designer, across 2,042 miles of American terrain by the unbelievably narrow margin of 23 seconds, probably established the "tops" in thrills for the meet.

The emphasize the closeness of the race, Howard's average speed was 238.7 and Turner's 238.5 miles per hour—in other words, the dryly humorous Howard traveled just two-tenths of a mile faster.

Questions and Answers

I have been told that when granite or enamel ware is chipped a deadly poison is released. Is this true?

Lead formerly was used in making enamel ware, and when the enamel was chipped off, the lead was exposed to the action of food acids. Modern enamels do not contain any toxic metals, so there is absolutely no danger of poisons being released. The greatest unpleasantness from the use of enamel that chips readily, is the likelihood of the chips getting into the food. Some enamel ware is constructed with a guarantee against chipping.

What fruits are usually classified as vegetables?

Tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, squash, pumpkin and eggplant are fruits that are usually classed as vegetables.

Is there any foundation for the saying that milk should be sipped slowly?

It has always seemed so reasonable to believe that sipping milk should favor its digestion that the idea has gained a foothold. Otherwise well-informed persons often advocate sipping milk as preferable to drinking it naturally. Research reveals that milk taken very slowly forms a larger curd in the stomach and therefore actually requires longer to digest than when taken rapidly.

How can silver be cleaned by using an aluminum pan for boiling?

Silver may be cleaned thoroughly and without damage if it is boiled for a few minutes in a bright aluminum pan containing a solution of washing soda, salt or baking soda in the proportions of 1 tablespoonful to 2 quarts of water. Boil for a few minutes.

What causes a cake to fall in the middle after it has been in the oven for a little while?

Too low an oven temperature will cause a cake to fall, or too thin a batter may produce a tall cake.

A Special Cake For a Happy Birthday

- 2 C. sugar
- ¾ tsp. salt
- 3½ C. prepared cake flour
- 5 tsp. baking powder
- 1½ C. milk
- 1½ tsp. flavoring
- 5 egg whites

Cream the shortening. Add the sugar gradually and cream thoroughly. Sift the flour once before measuring. Mix and sift the flour, salt and baking powder, and add alternately with the milk. Blend in the flavoring; vanilla and almond are suggested. Fold in egg whites, beaten until stiff but not dry. Pour into well greased and floured pans and bake at 350 degrees for 35 or 40 minutes. Cool and frost with pink and white icing.

THE SCHOOL BELL CALLS

THE schoolboy, on the first day of school, was traditionally supposed to answer the command of the bell with tardy and reluctant feet. He was considered to groan as he thought of nine months' servitude under the lesson yoke, in unhappy subjection to Teacher, whom he regarded as an unrelenting tyrant. He gave up the vagrant ways of vacation with a heavy heart.

The cheerful faces of the children of Pickaway-co on their way to school on its opening day, give no hint of such sentiment. On the contrary they have had enough of idle loafing, and they are ready to accept the tasks of school for what they get out of it.

The reason is that education has been turned upside down during recent years. It approaches children from a new point of view. It makes them want to learn, by picturing the dreary future in prospect for the dunce. It cuts out the tedious memory lessons of the past, it shows the close relation of school learning to daily needs, and it makes the boy who fails to get his lesson feel like a tail ender in the race of life.

School work becomes associated with interesting things which children do not want to miss. Thousands of schools have athletic teams, bands and orchestras, parties, dances, playgrounds. Not all schools can provide much facilities, but most of them somehow sugar coat the
once bitter pill of education.

The teacher has ceased being a grinding taskmaster, and has become the friend whom a normal child will want to please. If some of these youngsters still won't try to learn, even after all these induc-ments are offered, who or what is to blame? It may be some physical defect which could be cured. It may be some fault of a home, that is ignorant or neglectful. If children fall behind, their parents would better ask if the lack of home discipline is not the real cause.

PANAMA CANAL OF AGE

WHILE so much news space is taken up these days with war talk,
it is some comfort to turn for a moment to the record of a triumph of the peace-time arts. A week or so ago, the Panama Canal completed twenty-one years of activity. It is now of age.

During its comparatively brief history, there is a record of wonderful accomplishments to its credit. We read of eighty-two thousand passages of ships between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans with nearly $400,000,000 collected in tolls and a tremendous saving of time in navigation and freight-carrying. A considerable population has also grown up in the Canal Zone, 9,859 men in the military and naval forces, while 8,633 are classified as civilians.

Congressmen are said to have their ears to the ground and may be that they will never hear any sounds but those made by the Cimme hogs.

The Denver preacher who played cards with Nudists has been unfringed, the superior authorities of the church having designed a punishment to fit the crime.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

IS A SQUEEZE POSSIBLE?

SOME TIME AGO Mr. Ewart Lindsay, Noranda, Quebec, both bid and played the following interesting hand for a small slam in hearts. The opening lead was the K of diamonds.
Having fulfilled his contract and
made his small slam, the declarer
was told by opponents that he could have squeezed West for an added trick. Declarer denied that this could be done. Is a squeeze for a grand slam possible?

♠ K 10 7 2 ♠ 4
♥ 5 3 ♥ 7
♦ J 3 2 ♦ 8 7 5 4
♣ K Q 6 ♣ 9 7 5
♠ 8 ♠ 4 3 2
♠ A Q ♠ K 10
♥ A K Q J 8 4 ♥ J 9 ♠ Q ♠ 8
♦ A 10 9 ♦ Q ♠ J
♣ A J ♣ A J

Of course declarer had to take the K of diamonds with his Ace, leaving 2 cards of that suit in dummy and
the same number in his own hand.
The natural method of play is to pull West's three hearts by at once
taking three rounds of trumps. This
also removes all dummy's trumps.
One diamond trick, 6 trump tricks,
3 spade tricks and 2 club tricks give declarer an easy small slam. Usually an added trick can be squeezed from defenders under similar circumstances. Almost any trained player
will at once suspect that a grand
slam may be made through squeezing West, as he must guard both diamonds and spades. It obviously is impossible to squeeze a trick from

the club suit, as East holds the Q
and has nothing else to guard.

There are two means of entering dummy. One is through the K of clubs. The other is by overtaking declarer's K of spades with dummy's K, but this last one wastes a high
spade honor uselessly.

Having taken three rounds of
trumps the natural thing is for declarer to take his Ace and Q of spades, leaving the K-10 in dummy to attempt a squeeze. Both of dummy's diamonds may be discarded
under two of declarer's trumps, but West can let go his lowest diamond
and two lowest spades when declarer
leads his last trump and lets go
dummy's lowest and useless club.
After running off 9 tricks the 4 cards
left in each of the three hands that count will be:

Dummy—
♠ K 10 ♠ K 10
West—
♥ J 9 ♠ Q ♠ 8
Declarer—
♦ 10 9 ♣ A J

Declarer is in position where his
only possible safe leads are his two clubs. If the Ace is led, West follows suit. Unless West is to be given a diamond trick the next lead must be the J of clubs. Upon this West lets go his Q of diamonds and preserves his two spades. In case declarer puts dummy in by overtaking his J
of clubs with dummy's K, before leading off his Ace, dummy's K of spades gives declarer a discard of one diamond, but South then must give West either a spade trick, or return to his own hand by leading a club and give West a diamond trick. No squeeze can be made.

lame.

"No child, but I have not walked for 20 years. There is nothing the matter with my legs. I am not
paralyzed, but I cannot walk. . .
And Nita cannot talk. It is the curse my father put on me that day
so long ago. . . so long ago. . .
when I was 17 years old. I can hear him yet. We were in this room. I had told him I was in love, and he was going to run away with the man I loved and he hated, because he knew he would lose me.

"He laughed wildly, and cursed
me, struck me with his riding whip
. . . across my cheek. He was sitting
here by the fire, where my chair now
is, and I was standing. . . there, near him, a young thing frightened at everything, but brave because I loved.

"After his curse, I crept out, still brave because I loved. I ran. . .
away, child, with my man, but he
died as we were going away, and I
knew then my father's curse was coming true. . .

"I dared not come back. . . so I
stayed away, and I never saw my
father again."

Janet saw the room again, as it must have been in Morelle's youth.
The girl's father, sitting in the chair, alternately laughing and cursing at her. Morelle, standing,
her shoulders erect, fighting for her
love. . . a girl, slim and very tall,
too tall, with curls on her head, red
curls that glowed in the firelight. . .
a trembling girl, stealing out to the man she loved, going away with him,
the curse of her father ringing in
her ears. . .

"You were very young at the time.
And superstitious," she said, kindly.

"Child, you do not know what happened to me. I have been waiting for death for years. . . and now I
feel it close, so close I can breathe
the dark earth. Perhaps by tonight,
if I am lucky, I shall be on the rim
of the stars. There is just a slender
thread holding me, a thread I am trying to break with all the weak
strength I have left. Someone is holding the thread. . . someone who wants me to live and suffer more."

"Rajah has not been here all
morning," Janet said, seeking to change the subject.

"He will not be here all day, child.
He is guarding your. . . Mr. Rodman."

"Yes, Mr. Rodman is in the stable."

"I must go to him!"

"No, stay with me. He is safe so long as he stays there. One move
to leave, and Rajah will tear him
to ribbons!"

"Why can't you call him away?"
the girl cried, passionately.

"I am not his mistress. You should know that. He obeys. . .
only the devil!"

"So long as Mr. Rodman stays in the stable, then, he's safe?"

"Yes, so long as he stays there.
But he will starve there, you see.
Nita cannot take food to him."

"Starve?"

"Yes, starve. I can do nothing for him, and I like him too. He is a clean young man. . . a man I should like to have for a son. . ."

"I can take food to him!"

Miss Boisevain looked frightened and her breath caught in her throat.

"You would risk Rajah?"

"Yes!"

"You are stronger than I, then."

"May I go now?"

"Stay with me a moment, child. I am dying, and if I am alone, the thread that holds me to life, will pull me further away from. . . death.
Don't leave me alone, now!"

The sick, weary eyes were pleading Janet sat down again. Something in this woman's voice she could not resist. . . something, she could not tell what it was.

"Nita could stay. . ."

"Nita will do me no good."

The clock ticked loudly in the empty room. Janet's thoughts were silent room. Miss Boisevain
on Blair Rodman. Miss Boisevain had said he was in the stable. Was she telling the truth? After all,
there would be no point in her lying.
Now.

After a while Janet walked to the front window and looked out to see the car. It was gone, and only deep ruts in the grass-covered path
showed where it had stood.

"Ring for Nita to come," Miss Boisevain spoke.

Janet jingled the silver bell, and shuddered at the music it made in the still house. She heard its echo
after she had rung it.

When Nita came, she went straight to her mistress's bed. Miss Boisevain tried to put out her hand
to touch the servant, but she had not that much strength left.

"Bury me in the garden, Nita, by the stone bench. . . do this last thing for me. . ."

A shriek of laughter rang through the room. Janet looked wildly about but only the three of them were present. Nita, the sick woman, and herself. None of them had laughed.

"Child, stand closer to me. . . hold my hand. . . he's trying to keep me. . . Again came the laughter.
Softer this time, a man's laughter.

"He's trying to keep me here. . ."

For a long time Nita and Janet stood over the chair. Janet saw tears fall silently down Nita's wrinkled cheeks. She felt some in her own eyes. . . she did not know why.

And the laughter. . . she was tense
because she thought it would come again. Miss Boisevain had seemed frightened at it. . . it was holding her from death. . .

Laughter, when a woman was dying. . .

A man's laughter. . . and the only man around was Blair Rodman in the stable. . . unless Miss Boisevain had lied. . .

This could not be Blair's laugh-
ter. . .

Finally Nita bent forward, and felt her mistress's heart. The hand Janet was holding seemed to have no pulse.

The servant kissed the sick woman's forehead tenderly. When she turned to Janet, her eyes stared hopelessly, and her closed lips were trembling.

"Is she. . . dead?" the girl asked.

Nita opened the table drawer and drew out a pad of paper, and a pencil. She scribbled something quickly and Janet bent over to read it.

"Yes, she is dead. You must stay with her until I return. Do not leave the room for an instant."

Janet took the paper after Janet had read it, she tore it into bits and threw the bits into the fireplace.
Then she put a match to the paper.
Janet watched her leave the room,
heard her faintly open the kitchen door.

She was alone. . . with Miss Boisevain's body. Instinctively she moved her chair farther away. . .

Blair Rodman out in the barn. . .
with Rajah guarding him. . . Rajah would tear him to pieces if he made a move to leave. Did he know how dangerous the dog was? Surely he did! Surely he would not try to get out!

A half audible prayer left the girl's lips. . . a prayer for him to stay there until she could warn him.
The drapes were fluttering on the window which was partly open, and a beam of sunlight, speckled with innumerable diamonds, was playing on the floor.

She looked around the room.
The piano. . . her eyes turned away
from it quickly, but something drew them back. Something was lying on the closed cover. Something long and thin, with a bowl. . . dark. . .

A pipe! She walked over to the instrument and looked closer to be sure. It was a pipe! And she had never noticed it before! It could not have been there yesterday. [She had not glanced at the piano today,
but she had examined it carefully yesterday. Last night when she was alone with Miss Boisevain. . .

A pipe. . . to whom could it belong? Some of the burned tobacco had fallen on the rosewood. . .

And Miss Boisevain had said, almost in his last breath, "He is trying to keep me here. . ."

He was the owner of the pipe?"

The whistler? The master of Rajah?
For surely Rajah must have a master.

"He obeys. . . the devil!" The sick woman had said. The devil!

Yet Nita had told her, written her rather, to stay in this room. . . with Miss Boisevain. She was not to leave it for an instant.

Frightened, Janet grasped the silver bell, and shook it furiously.
Then waited for the servant to appear. Again and again she shook it, but no Nita.

Await Farley's Return

For Strategy Session

WASHINGTON—A small group of high Democratic moguls will gather here next week, immediately after Big Jim Farley's return,
to plot political strategy for 1936.
The exact route of Roosevelt's trip west will depend on latest political dope from Big Jim, who has been enroute from San Francisco. Missing from the meeting of master-minds will be the long and dolorous face of Raymond Moley. The former No. 1
Brain Trust is now off the White House list. It would be much easier for Al Smith to get a Roosevelt invitation to lunch. . .
Others crossed off the White House calling list are tall, gang-ling Gifford Pinchot and his Titian-haired wife, Cornelia. As Governor of Pennsylvania he was a bosom
friend of Franklin Roosevelt, spent
frequent weekends at Albany, later
dined often at the White House.
But ever since Gifford opposed Democratic Guffey as Senator
from Pennsylvania, he has been
"off the list."

The legend of the drooping of

Good Posture Gives Vitality

Certainly he who has a good posture and a good walking carriage
should have vitality because poor
posture necessarily drains energy
and brings on fatigue. The head
should rest in good balance on the top of the spine. When it does not,
the improper balance is supported by
the neck muscles, and the muscular
strain involved produces fatigue
more rapidly than in the well balanced posture. The same analogy
applies to the position of the spine,
which should sit squarely into the
sacrum, that bone which is, in shape
and in function, the keystone of the
bony ring of the hips—the pelvis.
Nearly all spines rest somewhat unbalanced on the sacrum, so that
about 95 per cent of us have a slight
curve in the lower or lumbar region
of the spine. In most cases this does not involve any strain, but when
accentuated it may bring on a number of symptoms associated with
fatigue, malnutrition, constipation,
loss of appetite, and a sense of mental depression.
How can we improve our standing
posture? We can attain a good standing posture by throwing our
shoulders back and rotating the palms of the hands out. Just take
that position, allow your arms to
hang, and rotate your hands so the palms are forward. You instinctively
expand your chest and want to take a deep breath. The two feet
should be parallel, distributing the weight of the body equally on the
balls of both feet.
A soldier at attention has a good
posture so long as he does not keep
his muscles strained. A plumb line dropped from the lobe of the ear of a person in good posture should pass
through the line of his shoulder, hip,
knee and ankle.

AT THE CLIFTONA

A brilliant array of talent bedecked the new screen musical comedy, "The Girl Friend," which opens Sunday at the Cliftona
Theatre for three days.

The top name spots are filled by the meteoric Ann Sothern and Jack Haley, stars of many Broad-

wood ones. Roger Pryor, another actor who has had equal popular-

Inez Courtney contributing their share of gaiety to the picture.

The music and lyrics for "The Girl Friend" were prepared by Gus

Pryor and an ensemble of chorus
boys and girls. "To Together," the tune which recurs throughout the film, is expected to become one of the season's hits. Other numbers
include "What Is This Power?"

MILLERS WIN TWO, AGAIN SHOW GAIN

COLUMBUS, Aug. 31.—Indianapolis, valiantly trying to cut the lead of Minneapolis, defeated Louisville, 5 to 2, but when the averages were figured today the Indians found themselves four and one-half games from the top, the Millers having increased their lead by a half game with a double win over St. Paul, 11 to 9 and 7 to 6.

Columbus guarded its shaky hold on third place and defeated Toledo, 3 to 2, while Kansas City, a game behind the Red Birds, remained idle yesterday.

A steady barrage of hits enabled the Millers to score in every inning of the opener with the exception of seventh. The second contest went 12 innings before Johnny Gill's homer decided the issue.

Indianapolis came from behind to defeat the Colonels, a two-run rally in the ninth putting the game on ice for the Hoosiers.

A two-run attack in the third followed by another tally in the fourth gave Columbus a lead which Toledo failed to overcome. When the Mudhens threatened Bob Klinger in the ninth, Mike Ryba, Red Bird star, was rushed to the mound.

HICKEY DEMANDS ACTION IN INT

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Unless the International league agrees to call the winner of its play-off series the league champion, there will be no "little world series."

Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American association, declared today that the association objects to the International league's practice of ignoring the league pennant winner and staging a play-off series between the first four teams and sending the winner against the association pennant winner.

"We will not play again unless they agree to make their play-off winner league champion," Hickey declared. "Neither of the last two seasons was the team we played the pennant winner. Under present conditions the 'little world series' is just an exhibition and means nothing."

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

Be At School Monday!

It is the duty of every able-bodied high school student to report at the school Monday at 3 p. m. for the initial meeting with Coach Jack Landrum, who will guide the school's destinies through the coming season—There are some boys who will be away with their parents and some will probably be adding a little pre-school money by caddyding, but all those who possibly can be urged to be present * * *

Landrum Realizes

Coach Landrum realizes the task he has on his hands and is planning to start in right away with work—The Monday meeting will probably be for discussion of possibilities with the new coach trying to get a line on his hopefuls * * *

Williams At Crossroad

Jumping Joe Williams of the Barberton Williams family is at the cross-roads of his athletics career—He has just taken an examination to learn whether he passes the Ohio State university summer school course which will either permit him or deny him the right to represent the Buckeros on the grid this fall—Williams is a stellar glider; his appearance in the Ohio lineup will help tremendously and it is hoped he will make the grade—His failure, however, would not wreck the hopes of the Ohioans for a national title * * *

Pirates Climbing

It would be a strange case of coming from behind if the Pittsburgh Pirates should continue their great winning streak and take the National league lead away from St. Louis—The Corsairs are now six games behind the Cards after taking them for two in a row—The Giants and Cubs are also clipping up on the St. Louis crew to again tighten the gonfalon chase—Although beaten by the Browns, Friday, the Tigers seem far and away ahead of the American league field * * *

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Thirty-one snakes—count 'em. It wasn't a case of seeing double when Chester L. Steigerwalt, amateur Harrisburg naturalist, counted that many additional snakes in his snake pen. His pet garter snake had given birth to 31 babies during the night.

FIRST OF THREE MEETS IS BEGUN

COLUMBUS, Aug. 31.—The first of Ohio's three scheduled fall racing meets will get under way today when a class field of thoroughbreds go to the post at 2:15 for the start of the 25-day meeting at Beulah Park, near here.

A lengthy meet at Coney Island, Cincinnati, from Sept. 2 to Oct. 22 and a 19-day card at the new Northampton track near Akron, Oct. 5-26, are the only other meets scheduled.

The feature of the Beulah opener will be the Inaugural Handicap, fifth race on the program. The event, over the mile and 70-yard route, will offer the winner a $600 purse.

Although starters will be limited to 10, a field of 15 nominations were received for the Inaugural race. Approximately 500 horses were reported quartered in the Beulah barns.

AMERICAN YACHT CAPSIZES IN SEA

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The American racing yacht Yankee capsized during the Dartmouth regatta today. Members of the crew escaped unharmed.

The towering mast of the huge yacht, which sailed the Atlantic early this summer to participate in British races, was carried away.

Other yachts went to assistance of the American vessel, which finally was towed into harbor by a trawler. All members of the crew managed to cling to the overturned craft until rescued. The race was abandoned.

A group of Circleville's progressive merchants have joined together to do honor to the fortunate boy or girl who is the first to be born in September in Circleville. To qualify a baby its birth should be reported immediately to The Herald by telephone or in person, giving the name and address of the parents, with the exact hour and minute of birth and the name of the attending physician. Parents of the First Born must reside in the corporation limits of Circleville.

As soon as possible the parents of the first born will call at this office and receive from the Baby of The Month Editor a certificate which will entitle them to the gifts and prizes the cooperating merchants are giving away.

Did You Know
By Pat J. Kirwin

HAT the first large camp meeting held in Pickaway-co was conducted along Little Walnut creek near the home of Jacob Longabaugh in July, 1826. According to newspapers of the time, a large crowd attended the meeting, but it was not a success because so many "ignorant persons" were in attendance.

It was decided that a committee would draw up a list of rules and regulations so that persons attending the second meeting "would not be embarrassed by their apparent lack of camp meeting knowledge." The camp meeting managers, Russell Bigelow, Jacob Delay, Charles Rawlins, James Tallman and Whiting Allen framed a list of rules which were very strict and quite characteristic of the Paritanical ideas of the time.

The second camp meeting opened on Friday, July 20, 1827, closed on the following Tuesday. As a preamble to its list of regulations, the committee had this to say: "It sometimes happens that persons who have been in the habit of attending camp meetings, for want of knowing the usual regulations, of such meetings, transgress the established rules to their after mortification. Others appear ignorant. So to inform both types the list of rules is ordained.

Among the regulations was one designating the separation of men and women during services and the prohibition of smoking and drinking near the grounds. The rules established by the committee followed:

1. All persons who come to the camp meeting with wagons or with design of pitching tents or tenting their wagons, must stop outside the encampment and receive instructions from one of the directors concerning their location.

2.—All persons, with teams, who arrive at the meeting in time of preaching, are requested to stop outside the encampment and not attempt to come in until preaching is over.

3. MEN AND WOMEN ARE REQUIRED TO SIT APART DURING THE TIME OF DIVINE WORSHIP.

4. The place of retirement for men and the place of retirement for women will be made known at the meeting and every one must retire to the place pointed out.

5.—The blowing of the trumpet at the stand will be the signal for preaching; at that time, all persons, excepting invalids, are required to leave their tents or wagons and take seats near the stand.

6. There must be no gathering into groups, no talking within the tent, nor any loud hallowing calculated to disturb the worshippers.

7. The people are prohibited from standing on the seats during the encampment, excepting persons who put up candles.

8. No persons, (except the preachers), are allowed in the stand without special permission.

9. There must be no smoking of cigars or pipes within 500 feet of the tent during divine services.

10. ALL PERSONS WHO ATTEND THE MEETINGS ARE REQUESTED TO GO PREPARED WITH FOOD FOR THEMSELVES AND HORSES.

A law also prohibited persons from selling "ordent spirits, cider or beer within one mile of the camp," and no marketing in the vicinity was allowed.

MELL MAY BE IN Recent meeting of GOP Bosses Rumored

Republicans of the 11th Ohio congressional district are staring fondly at the chair now occupied by Mell G. Underwood of New Lexington and wondering just who they can elect—if anyone.

Reports current today are that some of the leaders of the district met recently to pick a favorite representative and now are Paritanical ideas of the time.

The second camp meeting opened on Friday, July 20, 1827, closed on the following Tuesday. As a preamble to its list of regulations, the committee had this to say: "It sometimes happens that persons who have been in the habit of attending camp meetings, for want of knowing the usual regulations, of such meetings, transgress the established rules to their after mortification. ITALY DEFIES ALL NATIONS; SCORNS PEACE

Army to Be Increased to "Face Any Eventuality," According to Duce

CONCESSION AIRED

Americans, British May Develop Part of Ethiopia

ROME, Aug. 31.—A hint that Italy would not recognize the Anglo-American oil concessions granted by Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia was given in the influential Italian newspaper, Giornale d'Italia, today.

Commenting on the Abyssinian deal the newspaper said "When Mussolini declared he would observe all British interests in Africa he did not mean he was signing a blank check."

BOLZANO, Italy, Aug. 31.—Backing with greater armed might his warning that international action against his Ethiopian campaign would meet with resistance, Premier Benito Mussolini today announced that 200,000 more troops would be called to the colors within a month, and all the present forces, numbering nearly one million, would be kept in uniform.

In a terse, two-hundred word speech, Mussolini scorned all peace efforts and warned that his army, already the world's largest, would be increased "in order to face any eventuality that may arise."

Mussolini was addressing representative detachments of the 500,000 soldiers who have been conducting a week's maneuvers in northern Italy, and around Naples, in Sicily. All will remain under arms, he said.

Scorns Sanctions
"The world must know once again that, while there is so much absurd and provocative talk of sanctions, we will not give up a single soldier, a single sailor, or a single aviator."

"But we will bring to the highest degree of power all the armed forces of the nation."

Mussolini concluded with a stirring appeal for "courage and resolution."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Declining to comment until they receive official confirmation from their own ambassadors on the concessions Ethiopia's emperor is reported to have granted American and British interests to develop the mineral resources of a part of his country, state department officials today did make it clear that the reported concessions would not draw the United States closer into the controversy between Italy and Ethiopia.

This view was supported by Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho, for many years chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, and others, but some admitted that the new development, if true, would undoubtedly create some complicated situations.

Father of Six Sons Files Petition For Board of Education; Reid to Run.

John M. Kirwin, 904 S. Court-st., today filed a petition with Harry E. Reid, deputy clerk of the board of elections, seeking a post on the board of education.

Mr. Kirwin is the third man to file for one of the three positions on the board to be filled and three other petitions are in circulation.

Dr. G. D. Phillips, N. Court-st., and Rev. L. C. Sherburne, S. Scioto-st., have filed their petitions while petitions are still in circulation for Charles H. May and C. R. Barnhart, incumbent board members whose terms expire, and William M. Reid, Democratic member of council who has had many years experience in school work. Mr. Reid was beaten for the nomination for a second term in council by T. M. Barnes.

Although the board of education posts are non-partisan, Mr. Kirwin is the first Democrat to file for one of the jobs. Both Dr. Phillips and Rev. Sherburne are Republicans.

Mr. Kirwin is the father of six sons, four of whom have graduated from Circleville high school within the past ten years. He is well and favorably known in this city where he has spent his entire life. For 42 years he has been a cashier for the Norfolk and Western railroad here.

He is a member of Juvenile Judge C. C. Young's county board of visitors. Mr. Kirwin has never sought public office.

Three Stunters, Famed in Separate Nations, to Lead Saturday Events

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, Cleveland, Aug. 31.—The lure of a mad round of aviation thrills unequalled in aerial annals today drew 50,000 rabid, wide-eyed followers of the whirling propeller and the screaming motor into the rambling stands of this largest airport in the world.

Their appetites whetted by yesterday's postponement and the promise of the first national air races "doubleheader," in which yesterday's events and those of today will be combined into one mad, three-ring circus, brought them early—prepared to stay late.

Women Take Part

Looming as the bright spot of this double dose of daredevil ditches was the Amelia Earhart trophy race for women, slated for late afternoon. Members of the fair sex, constrained from participation in last year's races, are championing to "get out there and show those men." Extensive happenings are forecasted.

The event will be contested over a closed 15-mile course, five laps to the 75-mile race. Practically without exception, the finest "powder puff pilots" of the country will put their steel air rockets through qualifying trials before the starting gun to gain coveted permission to compete in the race proper.

In the racing realm, also, the lid will be lifted on the Greve trophy race, an event run in three heats, for small planes, and often described as the most valuable single race on the four-day card from a laboratory viewpoint.

Three Great Stars

All well and good, but this throng wants the stunt fliers and the parachute jumpers with their nonchalant contempt for Mr. Newton's law in their heart-swelling performances. Michael De Troyat of France; Gerda Archangelis of Germany, and Milo Burmah of America, are three headliners, each a champion in his own country, and probably the three greatest aerobats—efficiency fliers they call themselves—in the world.

FEDERAL HELP IS NECESSARY; PLAN ORDERED

City May Be Asked to Vote $45,000 Bond Issue for Local Share

SEEKS WPA FUNDS

Columbus Firm of Architects is Retained

A $45,000 bond issue covering the city's share of an $82,000 addition to Circleville high school may be submitted to the voters at the November election.

The board of education plans to file an application for federal aid covering 45 per cent of the cost of the addition before Sept. 4. If federal aid is assured on the project the bond issue will be placed before the voters.

Extend High School

Preliminary plans for the addition call for the extension of the high school building to Corwin-st. on the south and connect the building to the Corwin-st. school on the east side.

Charles H. May, president of the board of education, said he was unable to state how many rooms the proposed addition would contain. He explained the addition would be identical with the architecture of the high school building. The high school building is a two story type building with manual training and domestic science rooms in the basement.

The board retained Richard McCarty and Bulford, Columbus architects, to make plans for the new addition if government aid is obtained for the project.

Federal Office Places Fifty-Eight

The National Reemployment Service obtained private placements for 58 persons during the month of August, according to a report issued Saturday noon.

Eight women were placed in homes as housekeepers and maids on steady work. The other fifty were men who obtained employment as carpenters, painters, harvest hands, laborers, gardeners and one man obtained a permanent position as cook. Several girls obtained temporary work as typists. One young man obtained a steady position on a poultry farm.

Fourteen placements were made on the WPA bridge in Saltcreek-twp near Stringtown. This project was completed Aug. 29.

Labor Day this year as in recent years offers much food for thought. Too many of us are disposed to dismiss any thought on labor problems to so-called experts which is not fair to ourselves nor doing justice to the great issues involved. The least we can do is to ask ourselves "how can we help to solve this problem in our measure? Can we give employment to some one in need of it? Some among us are working more hours than God intended any man to work. In an economic crisis we need give help to some other and labor is better than charity. He would be considered a most wise man who could give us a solution for our present ills but one thing will help—that is, to follow the example of Jesus in our dealings with our neighbors. What the world needs more than aught else is His motive dominating our wills. His ideals put into practice, the churches are more eager than ever to help in their way. Go to church tomorrow. Take a friend.

The Church Invites You

THE MEANING OF LABOR DAY

Labor Day again leads us to specifically think of the men who toil at the burdensome occupations within human society. Christ was a workman who lived with the men who work.

Edwin Markham has said, "It is the purpose of the Divine Master to draw men so closely together that they will all stand upon a common ground. He knew that brotherhood must have a material basis. Christ had a vision of all this when he said, 'Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest.'"

With malice toward none and charity for all, the churches send greetings on Labor Sunday to all who toil with hand or brain and look forward with them to a better day. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

PLANTS GEMS AS SEEDS

PITTSBURGH.—Little Janet Bailey is not yet three years old, but she has her own ideas of gardening. Her parents missed a quantity of rings, jewels and other valuables. Two days afterward, a housemaid, accompanied by Janet, made a tour of the yard about the Bailey house. In a mud-pile she found a diamond ring "planted" while search of the lawn and the ground near sidewalks revealed others of the missing jewelry pieces. Janet had them all well planted. She is still wondering whether a diamond tree might not have grown up if they hadn't interfered with her "garden."

Blessed is the man who has found his work and then gets busy.

The lowliest work is made noble if done with high motives.

The Newman Congregational church of Runford, R. I. recently celebrated its two hundred ninth anniversary. It was founded by Samuel Newman, the compiler of the first English concordance. It is said to be the only church in existence built upon land purchased from the Indians and which has preserved to this day the original quit-claim deed signed by King Philip himself and witnessed by the crude marks of four Indian braves. It is probably the only church that has existed without moving, under two national governments, two different states and three different towns. Three meeting-houses have sheltered the congregation, one built in 1647, the second in 1718 and the third and last in 1810.

A Chicago report states that the first Hebrew Christian church to be organized on American soil has just been organized at the Penial Community Center in that city. Forty one persons signed the charter. It is fashioned after the pattern of the Hebrew Christian church in Jerusalem and is designed to call the attention of the Jewish race to the Messiah.

WHAT IS THE CHRISTIAN INTERPRETATION OF INDUSTRIAL HARMONY TODAY?

Dr. John McDowell has said relative to this subject, "The mystical dream Christ of medievalism needs to be supplemented by the practical, fraternal, democratic Christ of our day, the Christ, not of the cloister, but of the farm, the shop, the factory, the mine, the railroad, the office, the school, the home—in a word, the Christ who has an interest in and a message for all human relationships, all human activities, all human needs."

Christ stands for co-operation, and therefore is the solution of the problem of greater efficiency in the work of industry; for justice, and therefore is the solution of the problem of greater equity in the distribution of the earnings of industry; for democracy, and therefore is the solution of the problem of a greater participation in the management of industry; for brotherhood, and therefore is the solution of the problem of greater security in the operation of industry; for love, and therefore is the solution of

Paul—A Worker With Hand and Brain ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Acts 20:23-35; Philippians 4:4-13.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell

And Alfred J. Buescher

Saul of Tarsus had come to be the early church's arch enemy and persecutor when Christ appeared to him on the road to Damascus and called him to become a Christian. Thus he was converted.

Though highly educated in the schools of the day Paul learned the trade of tentmaking at which he supported himself and his associates whenever necessary.

Paul had been pastor three years at Ephesus and on his last journey in that region while his ship waited at Miletus he visited with the leaders of the church at Ephesus and bade them farewell.

About five of Paul's 35 years as a Christian were spent in prison from which he wrote wonderful letters to encourage his friends. His mind could not be imprisoned.

eastern Ethiopia today staggered business and government circles, where the deal was the sole topic of conversation.

Talk Possibilities In the "city" and around Whitehall hurried conferences of financiers and officials were called to discuss the immense international implications of the reported arrangement.

While some indication of official British reaction was eagerly awaited, the reports that most of the money for the Ethiopian enterprise will be found in New York and London surprised conservative financiers, who felt that even such a risk-averse concession as Francis M. Rickett apparently obtained was fraught with considerable risk due to the uncertain political situation.

On the other hand, interest in the "city" soon showed that there were plenty of people there willing to take a gamble, and it was felt that there would be plenty of British money available for developing the concession if it is sought.

Rickett is known in London's financial section as a man prominent behind the scenes in several big international oil deals in the near and middle east.

I have been told that when granite or enamel ware is chipped a deadly poison is released. Is this true?

Lead formerly was used in making enamel ware, and when the enamel was chipped off, the lead was exposed to the action of food acids. Modern enamels do not contain any toxic metals, so there is absolutely no danger of poisons being released. The greatest unpleasantness from the use of enamel that chips readily, is the likelihood of the chips getting into the food. Some enamel ware is constructed with a guarantee against chipping.

Tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, squash, pumpkin and eggplant are fruits that are usually classed as vegetables.

Is there any foundation for the saying that milk should be sipped slowly?

It has always seemed so reasonable to believe that sipping milk should favor its digestion that the idea has gained a foothold. Otherwise well-informed persons often advocate sipping milk as preferable to drinking it naturally. Research reveals that milk taken very slowly forms a larger curd in the stomach and therefore actually requires longer to digest than when taken rapidly.

How can silver be cleaned by using an aluminum pan for boiling?

Silver may be cleaned thoroughly and without damage if it is boiled for a few minutes in a bright aluminum pan containing a solution of washing soda, salt or baking soda in the proportions of 1 tablespoonful to 2 quarts of water. Boil for a few minutes.

THE SCHOOL BELL CALLS
The schoolboy, on the first day of school, was traditionally supposed to answer the command of the bell with tardy and reluctant feet. He was considered to groan as he thought of nine months' servitude under the lesson yoke, in unhappy subjection to Teacher, whom he regarded as an unrelenting tyrant. He gave up the vagrant ways of vacation with a heavy heart.
The cheerful faces of the children of Pickaway-co on their way to school on its opening day, give no hint of such sentiment. On the contrary they have had enough of idle loafing, and they are ready to accept the tasks of school for what they get out of it.
The reason is that education has been turned upside down during recent years. It approaches children from a new point of view. It makes them want to learn, by picturing the dreary future in prospect for the dunce. It cuts out the tedious memory lessons of the past, it shows the close relation of school learning to daily needs, and it makes the boy who fails to get his lesson feel like a tail ender in the race of
life.
School work becomes associated with interesting things which children do not want to miss. Thousands of schools have athletic teams, bands and orchestras, parties, dances, playgrounds. Not all schools
can provide much facilities, but most of them somehow sugar coat the
once bitter pill of education.
The teacher has ceased being a grinding taskmaster, and has become the friend whom a normal child will want to please. If some of these youngsters still won't try to learn, even after all these induc-ments are offered, who or what is to blame? It may be some physical defect which could be cured. It may be some fault of a home, that is ignorant or neglectful. If children fall behind, their parents would better ask if the lack of home discipline is not the real cause.

PANAMA CANAL OF AGE
WHILE so much news space is taken up these days with war talk,
it is some comfort to turn for a moment to the record of a triumph of the peace-time arts. A week or so ago, the Panama Canal completed twenty-one years of activity. It is now of age.
During its comparatively brief history, there is a record of wonderful accomplishments to its credit. We read of eighty-two thousand passages of ships between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans with nearly $400,000,000 collected in tolls and a tremendous saving of time in navigation and freight-carrying. A considerable population has also grown up in the Canal Zone, 8,959 men in the military and naval forces, while 8,633 are classified as civilians.
Congressmen are said to have their ears to the ground and maybe that is why they never hear any sounds but those made by the Canal hog.
The Denver preacher who played cards with nudists has been unchecked, the superior authorities of the church having designed a punishment to fit the crime.

CONTRACT BRIDGE
By E. V. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

IS A SQUEEZE POSSIBLE?
SOME TIME AGO Mr. Edward Lindsay, of Cincinnati, Ohio, both bid and played the following contract, which for a small claim to be made. The opening lead was the K of diamonds.
Having fulfilled his contract and
made his trick score, the declarer
was told by opponents that he could have squeezed West for a third trick. Declare that it is not possible to squeeze West for a third trick. Is a squeeze for a third trick possible?
♠ K 10 7 2 ♠ 4
♥ 9 5 3 ♥ 7
♦ J 3 2 ♦ 8 7 5 4
♣ K 10 6 ♣ 9 8 7 5
♠ A Q ♠ K 10
♥ A K Q J 8 4 ♥ 4
♦ A 10 9 ♦ A J
♣ A J ♣ A J
Of course declarer had to take the K of diamonds with his A, leaving two cards of that suit in dummy and
the same number in his own hand.
The natural method of play is to give
pull West's three hearts by at once
taking three rounds of trumps. This
also removes all dummy's trumps.
One diamond trick, 4 trump tricks,
3 spade tricks and 2 club tricks give J declarer an easy small slam. Usually an added trick can be squeezed from declarer's under similar circumstances. Almost any trained player
will at once suspect that a grand
slam may be made through squeezing West, as he must guard both a diamond and spades. It obviously is impossible to squeeze a trick from
the club suit, as East holds the Q
and has nothing else to guard.
There are two means of entering
dummy. One is through the K of
clubs. The other is by overtaking
declarer's Q of spades with dummy's K, but this last one wastes a high
spade honor uselessly.
Having taken three rounds of
trumps the natural thing is for declarer to take his A and Q of clubs, leaving the K-10 in dummy to attempt a squeeze. Both of dummy's diamonds may be discarded upon two of declarer's trumps, but West can let go his lowest diamond
and two lowest spades when declarer
leads his last trump and lets go
dummy's lowest and useless club.
After running off 9 tricks the 4 cards
left in each of the three hands that
count will be:
Declarer: ♠ K 10 ♠ K 10
West: ♠ J 9 ♦ Q ♠ 4 8
♦ 10 9 ♣ A J
Declarer: ♠ A Q ♠ K 10
♥ A K Q J 8 4 ♥ 4
♦ A 10 9 ♦ A J
♣ A J ♣ A J
Declarer is in position where his
only possible safe leads are his two clubs. If the A is led, West follows.

THE DEVIL'S MANSTION
CHAPTER 35
"DID YOU fall?" asked Janet when Miss Boisevain told her she was
lame.
"No child, but I have not walked
for 20 years. There is nothing the matter with my legs. I am not
paralyzed, but I cannot walk."
And Nita cannot talk. It is the
curse my father put on me that day
so long ago... so long ago...
when I was 17 years old. I can hear him yet. We were in this room. I had told him I was in love, and was going to run away with the man I adored and he hated. Because I knew he would love me.
"He laughed wildly, and cursed
me, struck me with his right hand
across my cheek. He was sitting
here by the fire, where my chair now
is, and I was standing... then he told me, a young thing that could not do anything, but have because I
loved."
"After his curse, I crept out, still
brave because I loved. I ran...
away, child, with my man, but he
died as we were going away, and I
knew then my father's curse was
coming true."
"I dared not come back... so I
stayed away, and I never saw my
father again."
Janet saw the room again, as it must have been in Morena's youth.
The girl's father, sitting in the
chair, alternately laughing and cursing at her. Morena, standing
her shoulders erect, fighting for her love. A girl, then, and very tall,
too tall, with curls on her head, red
curls that showed in the twilight
of a trembling girl, stealing out to a man she loved, going away with him,
the curse of her father raining in
her ears...
"You were very young at the time,
And superstitious," she said, faintly.
"Child, you do not know what happened to me. I have been waiting
for death for years... and now I
feel it close, so close I can breathe
the dark earth. Perhaps by tonight,
if I am lucky, I shall be on the rim
of the stars. There is just a slender
thread holding me, a thread I am
trying to break with all the weak
strength I have left. Someone is
holding the thread... someone who
wants me to live and suffer more."
"Rajah has not been here all
morning," Janet said, seeking to
change the subject.
"He will not be here all day, child.
He is guarding your... Mr. Rodman."
"Mr. Rodman?"
"Yes, Mr. Rodman is in the stable."
"I must go to him!"
"No, stay with me. He is safe so long as he stays there. One move
to leave, and Rajah will tear him
to ribbons."
"Why can't you call him away?"
the girl cried, passionately.
"I am not his mistress. You
should know that. He obeys...
only the devil!"
"So long as Mr. Rodman stays in

OUTWARD
Whither away, O Sailor, say?
Under the night, under the day,
Yearning sail and flying spray
Out of the black into the blue,
Where are the great Winds hearing you?
Never port shall lift for me
Into the sky, out of the sea!
Into the blue or into the black,
Onward, outward, never back!
Something mighty and weird and dim
Calls me under the ocean rim!
Sailor under sun and moon,
'Tis the ocean's fatal rune,
Under your far rim of sky
Twice ten thousand others lie,
Love is sweet and home is fair,
And your mother calls you there.
Onward, outward I must go
Where the mighty currents flow,
Home is anywhere for me
On this purple-tented sea,
Star and Wind and Sun my brothers,
Ocean one of many mothers.
Onward under the sun and star
Where the weird adventures are!
Never port shall lift for me
I am Wind and Sky and Sea!

Others crossed off the White

of Pennsylvania he was a bosom
friend of Franklin Roosevelt, spent
frequent weekends at Albany, later
dined often at the White House.
But ever since Gifford opposed

from Pennsylvania, he has been
"off the list."

Dinner Stories
THE BITTER BITE
A young man was amazed to find that the girl he had married
had a most violent temper.
"What I can't understand," he said, "is why I didn't realize you had such a temper before I married you."
"Well," she affably replied,
"whenever you said anything to annoy me in those days I used to go upstairs and bite pieces out of the dressing table."

Folk in Possession of "It"
Usually Have Good Posture

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WHAT DO we mean when we say a person has "it"? Somehow or other, we instinctively recognize the quality—both its presence and its absence, and we can classify our friends into two groups: those who have "it" and those who do not have
"it".
In analyzing the real nature of the quality of the other day, a group of people finally agreed that "it" consists fundamentally in superior vitality. The person who has so much energy that it exudes out all over him—energy of the body, of the intellect, of the soul—is the person who fundamentally has "it".
Perhaps nothing contributes more
to give the impression of this superior vitality than good posture.
Perhaps we remember people more
on account of their graceful carriage, effortless walk, easy assumption of different positions—sitting,
playing games—than we do the beauty
of face, skin, hands, or figure.
Good Posture Gives Vitality
Certainly he who has a good pos-
ture and a good walking carriage
should have vitality because poor
posture necessarily drains energy
and brings on fatigue. The head
should rest in good balance on the
top of the spine. When it does not,
the improper balance is supported by
the neck muscles, and the muscular
strain involved produces fatigue
more rapidly than in the well balanced posture. The same analogy
applies to the position of the spine,
which should fit squarely into the
sacrum, that bone which is, in shape
and in function, the keystone of the
bony ring of the hips, the pelvis.
Nearly all spine rest somewhat
unbalanced on the sacrum, so that
about 95 per cent of us have a slight
curve in the lower or lumbar region
of the spine. In most cases this does
not involve any strain, but when
accentuated it may bring on a number of symptoms associated with
fatigue, malnutrition, constipation,
loss of appetite, and a sense of mental depression.
How can we improve our standing
posture? We can attain a good
standing posture by throwing our
shoulders back and rotating the
palms of the hands out. Just take
that position, allow your arms to
hang, and rotate your hands so the
palms are forward. You instinctively
expand your chest and want to take a deep breath. "Infant Posture"
should be parallel, distributing the
weight of the body equally on the
balls of both feet.
A soldier at attention has a good
posture so long as he does not keep
his muscles strained. A plumb line
dropped from the top of the ear of
a person in good posture should pass
through the line of his shoulder, hip,
knee and ankle.

Who'll be the First September Baby?

A group of Circleville's progressive merchants have joined together to do honor to the fortunate boy or girl who is the first to be born in September in Circleville. Under the plan adopted these merchants will extend their congratulations in the substantial form of gifts to the First Baby of September and its parents. The gifts will be given to the first boy or girl to be born after midnight, August 31, 1935, this baby to be declared September's First Baby.

To qualify a baby its birth should be reported immediately to The Herald by telephone or in person, giving the name and address of the parents, with the exact hour and minute of birth and the name of the attending physician. Parents of the First Born must reside in the corporation limits of Circleville.

As soon as possible the parents of the first born will call at this office and receive from the Baby of The Month Editor a certificate which will entitle them to the gifts and prizes the cooperating merchants are giving away.
